

County Councillor's Report, February 2020

Stansted Airport

At last week's STACC meeting there was a presentation from the Dept of Transport, regarding their consultation on Airspace Change Strategy. In short, they are reviewing the way airspace is used across the UK and wish to embrace modern technology to assist aircraft navigation, moving away from ground-based systems to satellite GPS etc. They also want to look to reducing noise and pollution by introducing steeper glided paths for landing and takeoff.

Any airspace above 7000 will be dealt with by CAA/NATTs, while that below will be with the major airports, in our case Stansted. They will be required to coordinate with their neighbours as some overflying eg to Luton will be within the 7000ft envelope. Therefore there will be two consultations the most relevant will be Stansted's and they wish to engage soon with local communities to get this process underway, so one to watch out for.

Essex 2020: A Year of Science and Creativity

“By experiencing our pioneering STEM industries and rich diversity of arts and culture first-hand, Essex 2020 will help residents of all ages feel proud of the county's past achievements and believe in our exciting future. A new decade of opportunity for our county has begun and Essex 2020 is our window to the world.” - Gavin Jones, Essex County Council's Chief Executive

This year, we're shining a spotlight on the scientific and creative innovation that is unique to Essex, with the aim of creating a lasting impact for future generations in science, technology, engineering, arts and mathematics (STEAM).

Essex already has a surprising and inspiring track record of breaking new ground; our diverse county delivered the first entertainment broadcast to global airwaves; created the Queen's favourite jam and helped bring Big Beat to the world courtesy of resident Liam Howlett of the Prodigy.

We also have a rich history of entrepreneurship, with innovators including Lord Alan Sugar and digital colour photography inventor Michael Francis Tompsett, alongside a myriad of successful businesses which are helping to revolutionise the world we live in, to name but a few.

Essex 2020 is seeking to build on this with over 360 inspiring events – at least one for each day of the year – that will celebrate Essex's pioneering past and present-day innovators. We want to elevate the aspirations of young people in terms of their future careers, drive innovation across the county and inspire residents to feel proud of where they live.
